Bachelor's Hall.

dom have her due for once :- New Alb. Dem. Bechelor's Hall! what a queer looking place it is!

Kape me from such all the days of my life; Sure but I think what a burning disgrace it is,

Never at all to be getting a wife. See the old bachelor, gloomy and sore enough, Placing his teakettle over the fire; Soon it tips over-St. Patrick! he's mad enough, If he were present, to fight with the squire.

Now, like a hog, in a mortar-bed wallowing,

Awkward enough, see him kneading his dough; Troth, if the bread he could ent without swallowing How it would favor his palate you know. His disheloth is missing, the pigs are devouring it;

In the pursuit he has battered his shin; A plate wanted washing, grimalkin is scouring it; Thunder and turf! what a pickle he's in. His meal being over, the table left setting so; Dishes, take care of yourselves, if you can!

Late in the night he goes to bed shivering-Never a bit is the bed made at all; He creeps like a terrapin under the kivering; Bad luck to the picture of "Bachelor's Hall."

Och! let him alone for a baste of a man!

Brain Cudgeling.

'I am unable,' you loafer cries, To stand or move -if he say true, he lies. If with more care you'd exercise your wits, You'd find he neither stands, nor hes, but sits.

A Kiss .- At Whitesboro', New York, last week, a man was tried for kissing a woman two years ago. During these two years she has nursed the kiss and her "wrath to keen them warm," and has at length complained to the grand jury. It was, however, clearly proved that the man not only did not kiss her, but according to his own expression, he "would'nt have kissed her for fifty dollars," as she was cleaning the house, and her face was at the time shockingly distigured by soot, dust, soap, grease and other defilements, and her head dress was not calculated to enhance her charms. The man was discharged.
